Best in Europe Award for Architects

The Bright development company won both “Best in Spain” and “Best in Europe” in the “Architecture Single Residence” category at the finals of the International Property Awards held at The Savoy in London.

Their entry, Villa Alcuzcuz, located in the hills above San Pedro, is “the Coast’s first luxury environmentally friendly home built to Passive House Regulations and Standards, guaranteeing more than 75 per cent saving on energy costs compared with a standard new build”.

UDesign Architecture Studio are the creative force behind the Bright brand. “We’re very excited about this win, because it’s a win for the entire architecture and design sector in southern Spain,” said Jason Harris (CEO of UDesign) who, together with Michael Rodziewicz (current CEO of Bright), set up the company with the express aim of “creating exceptional spaces that improve quality of life through pure design”.

They are also in the process of developing another project in the Marbella area: Vista Lago Residences, a luxury development of 18 designer villas in Real de la Quinta. “Everyone here is trying to build and design a better villa than the competition,” added Jason, “contributing to a hotspot of creativity that keeps pushing the standards higher and higher.”
